

Second Grade

Students will read Flat Stanley - His original Adventure (book #1 in series). There is a project to complete included in this packet. They will also read one book of their choice and do the Book Report in a Bag. A suggested book list is included. Please bring both books and projects to school on the first day. See you in September!;

Book Report in a Bag

1. Students will need a plain gift bag (brown or white paper is best) large enough for the objects to fit
2. Outside of the bag needs to include:
  - Decorate outside of the bag to include pictures and artwork related to the book
  - Include book title and author's name
3. Inside the bag:
  - Five items that symbolize characters, setting, and plot.
  - For each item in the bag, students will need to explain the relevance and meaning that each item relates to the story

(example: Flat Stanley could have a piece of corkboard to represent the bulletin board that fell on him in the story)

To avoid the "summer slide", please have your child practice the following sections on IXL in the First Grade section:

D-9 - addition facts to 20, D-12 - addition word problems to 20, J-5 - mixed add/sub facts
H-10 - subtraction facts to 20, H-13 - subtraction word problems to 20, M-1 - place value

Feel free to do any other sections for added practice! Don't let your math skills turn to mush!

Summer Reading Flat Teacher Project: Our Classmate Version of Flat Stanley

I hope you enjoyed reading Flat Stanley - and if you did not read it yet, read it first before reading about this project! It will make much more sense...

In the story, a bulletin board fell on Stanley as he slept, and he became 1/2" thick! He wanted to go on a trip and since he was flat, his family folded him up and mailed him in an envelope to California. And the story continues....

We are going to change this up a little bit and I am sending a "Flat Teacher" to you that looks just like me—Mrs. Grenier. Take me with you to three different places (family vacation, day trip, play outside, etc.) and take pictures with me. They can be selfies or pictures your parents take. Feel free to be silly and have fun with this! I've included 3 writing pages with a frame for you to print out the pictures and glue them on. There is also space to write about what "we" did on that adventure. Make sure to add details and write at least three sentences for each one. You are always welcome to write as much as you want! (there are lines on the back too!)

Before school begins in September, put your pages together and make a cover for your book about our fun times. Don't forget to bring this project and the Flat Stanley book with you on the first day of school. I cannot wait to see what we did together!

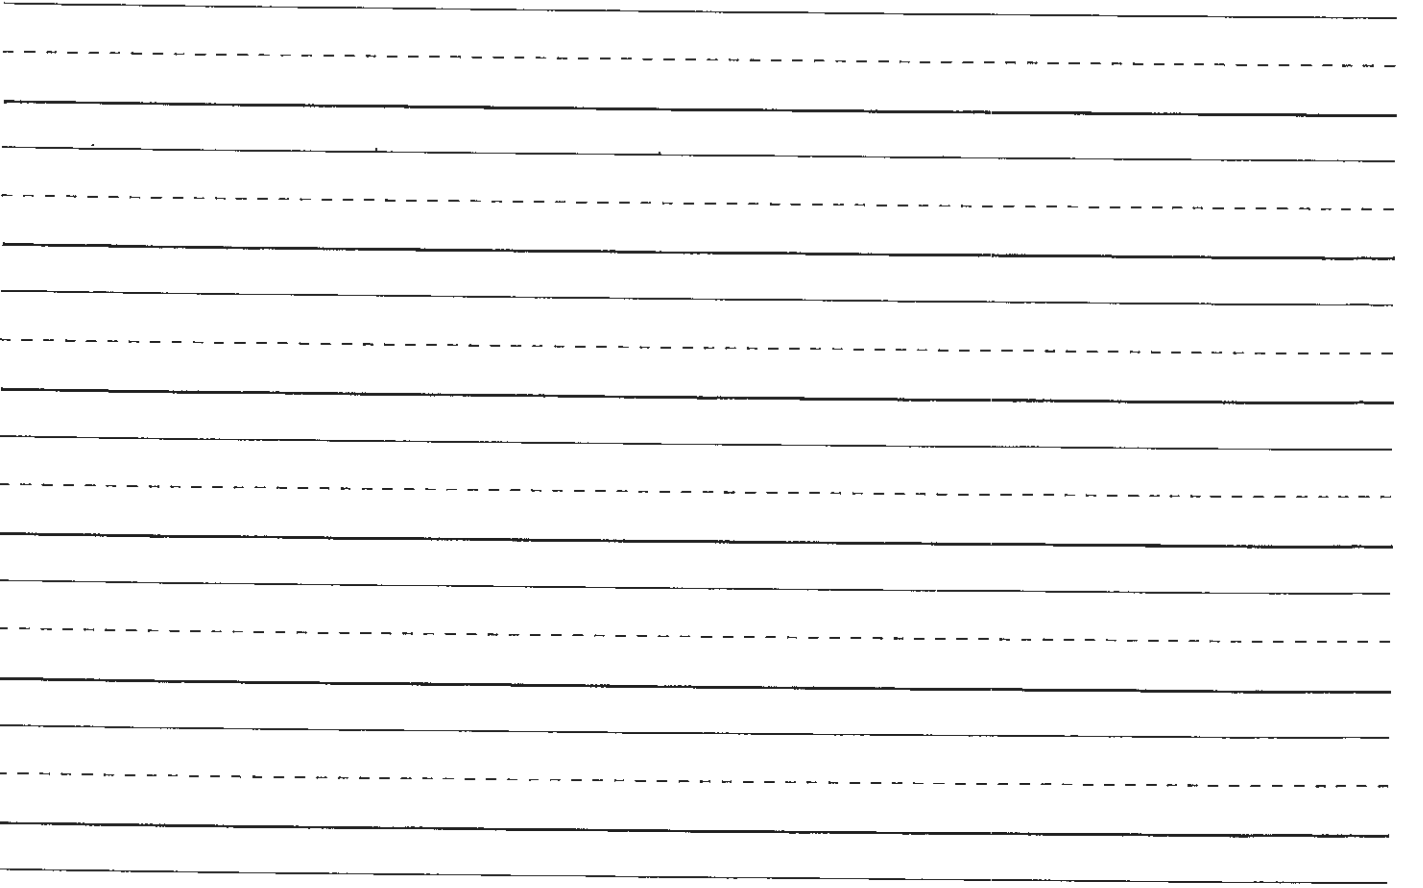

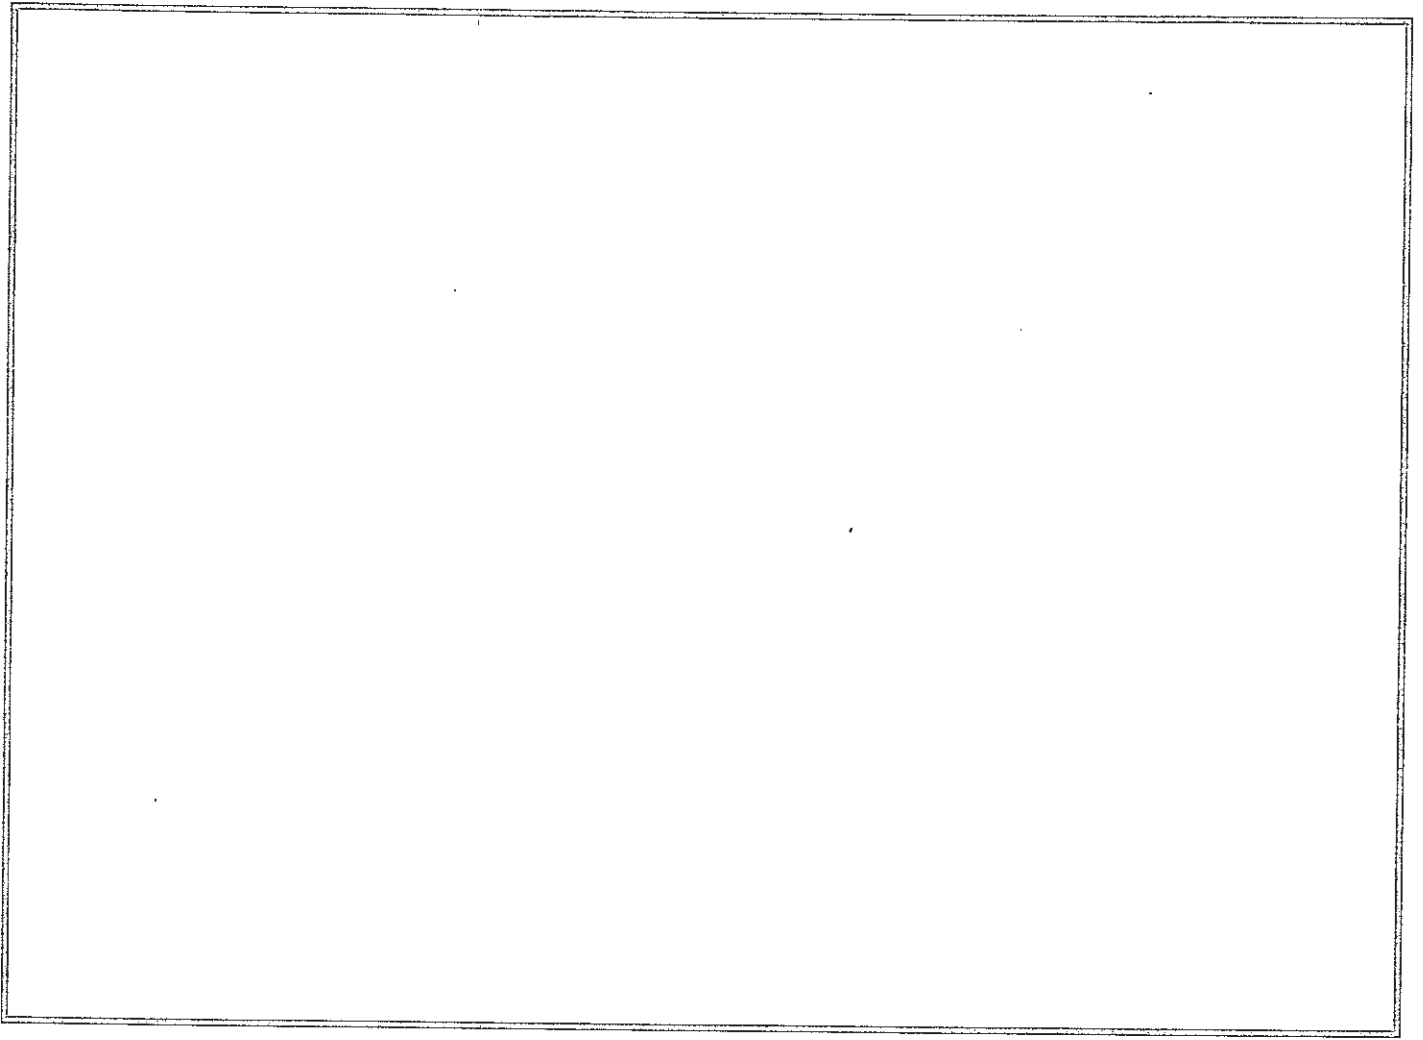

Have a great summer!

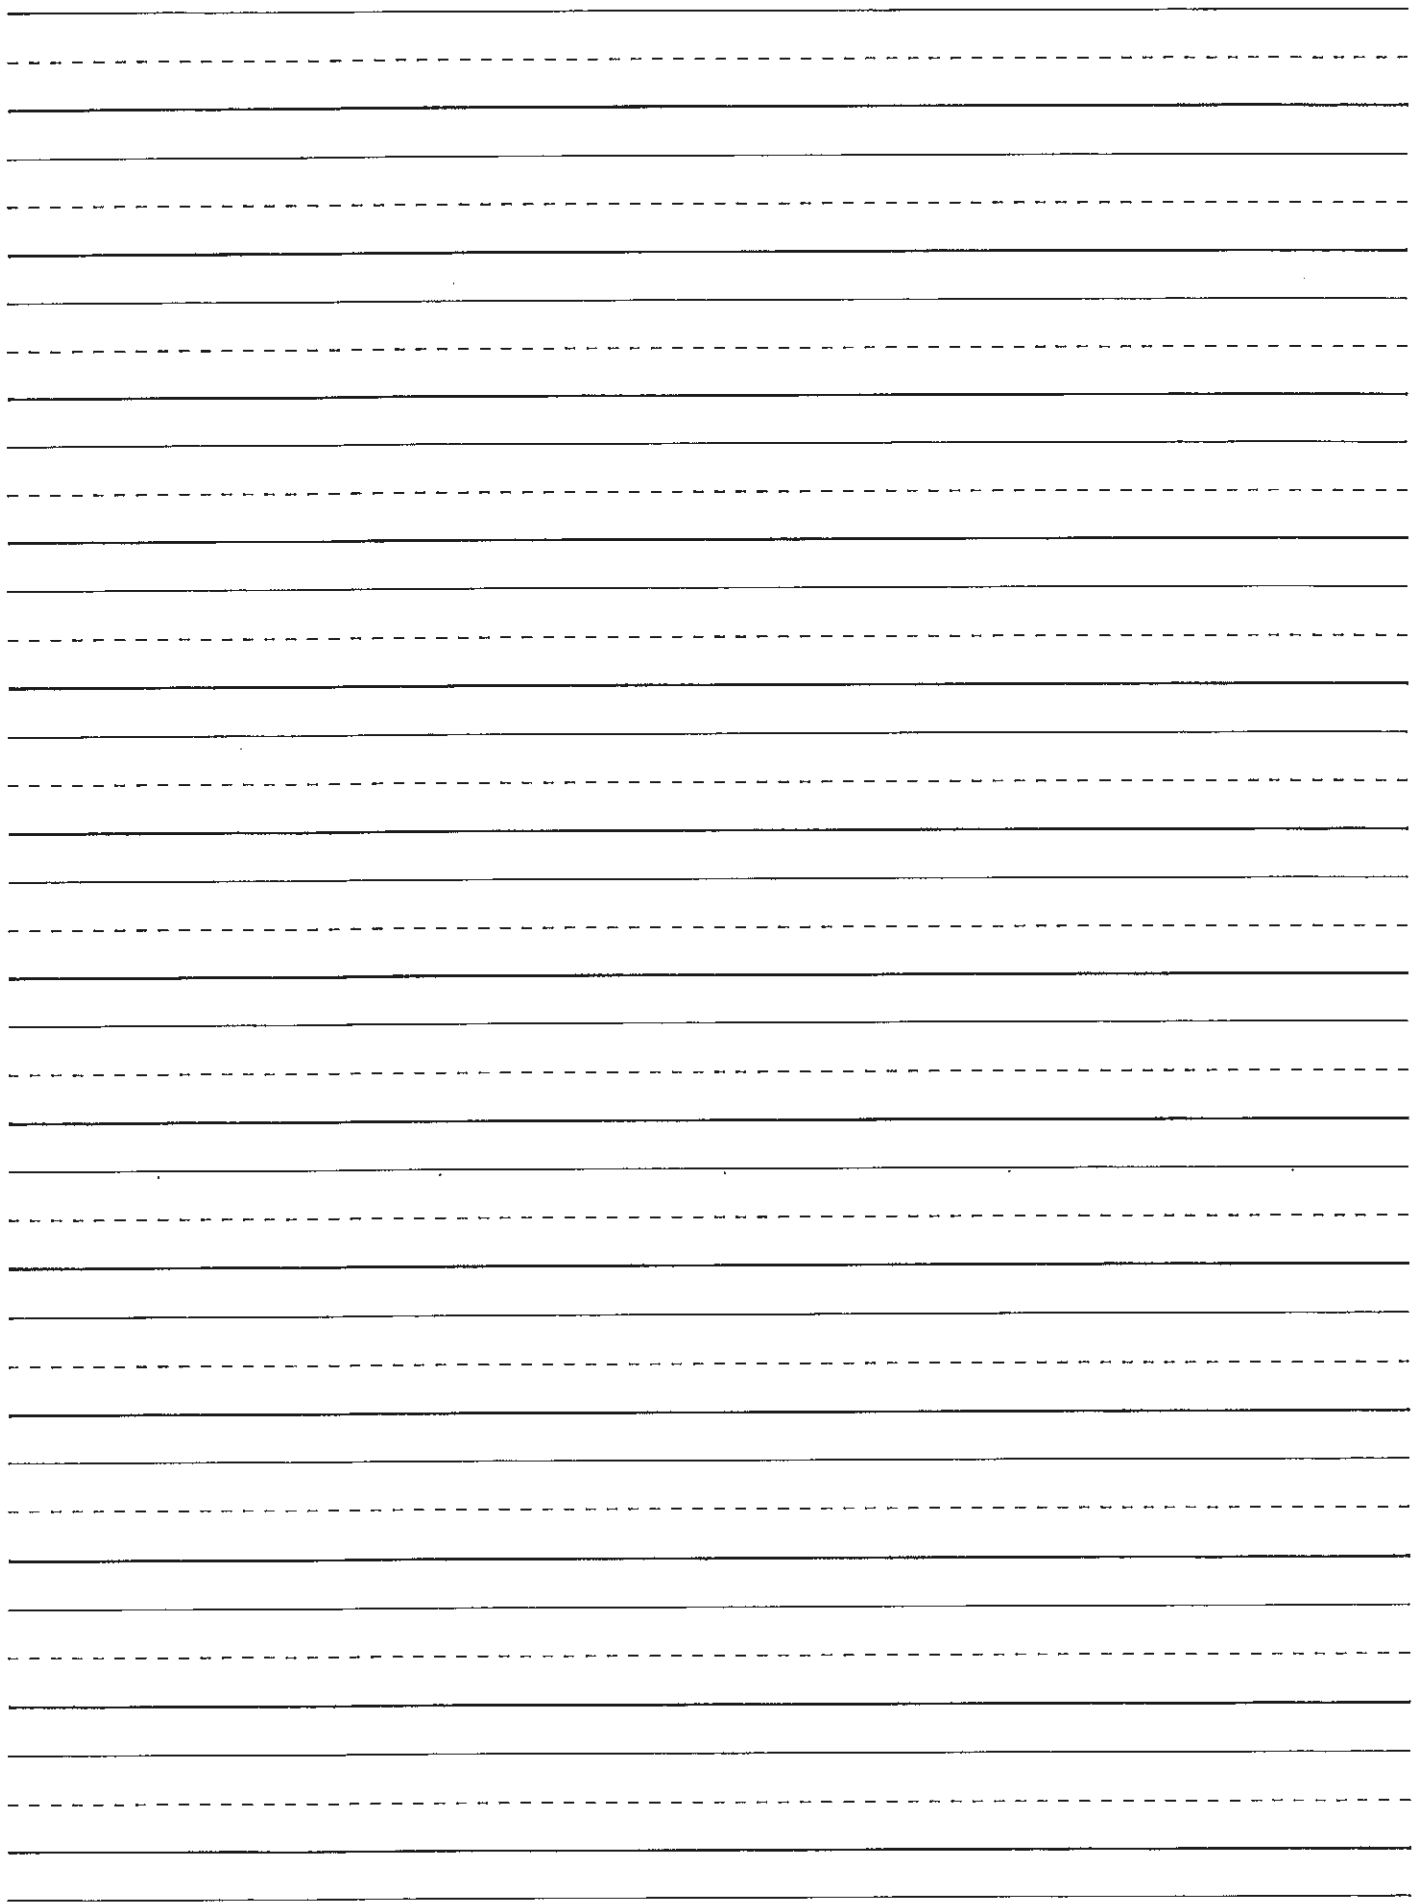

Mrs. Grenier
